Description of event

This event was organized as the independent event at the Rectorate, University of Kragujevac, on October 18-19.2024. The event started with the registration of the participants, in person and online.

Professor Darko Hinić, project coordinator, gave a welcome speech, in which he talked about the DigiPsyRes project in general, presenting the basic information about purpose and aims of the project. The event agenda and overall event aims were briefly discussed and outlined.

The official program started with presentation “Digital security and violence in cyberspace: gender perspective” by Zorana Antonijević, from the Centre for International Security, Faculty of Political Sciences, Belgrade, and Critical Infrastructure Digitalization and Resilience program, DAI & USAID. Statistical data and examples of specific cases mentioned during the presentation caused great interest and concern of those present, who shared some of their own experiences from the many years of pedagogical and professional work in education. After that, assistant professor Milica Stojković, from the UNIKG team presented the Project results with the special focus on the Guide, Manual, e-magazine and web portal. The other members of the team, prof. Darko Hinić and prof. Mirjana Beara joined the presentation. They discussed milestones achieved and raised some of the issues that will be discussed during the next day.

The second day of the meeting started with student trainers demonstrate DigiPsyRes training programs (A and C). In specific, meeting attendees had the opportunity to directly participate in selected activities and workshops from programs A and C, which were related to the development of psychological resilience. The audience was very interested in the topics of the workshops, especial about personal or psychological resilience.

The highlight of the day was joint discussion on the benefits and challenges of the DigiPsyRes network. The possibility of extending the project to secondary schools and their network of peer support was analysed; resources that professionals in this field can rely on in the process of establishing such a network have been listed. The possibilities and ideas of adapting this program to the population of parents of children of preschool and early school age were considered too.

After the lunch break the final online presentation of this event were held by Zorana Antonijević on the topic of “Women in cybersecurity: challenges and new possibilities”.
